

Seven Anchin Partners Selected for Inclusion Among Crain's Notable 2022 Leaders in Accounting and Consulting

September 13, 2022

Anchin, a premiere New York based full-service tax, accounting and advisory firm, is pleased to announce that seven of our Partners have been honored with inclusion in Crain's Notable 2022 Leaders in Accounting and Consulting list. The Partners are Tara Burek, Jared Feldman, David Horton, Megan Klingbeil, Brent Lessey, Chris Noble, and Greg Wank. These individuals hold various leadership roles at Anchin, including within the Consumer Products, Financial Services, Private Client, Professional Services and Technology industry teams, as well as within their own communities. Anchin's selection of recognized leaders represents a remarkable proportion of the 64 Crain's honorees.

"It's wonderful that all of these Partners who demonstrate leadership in all that they do, and who share their insights tirelessly, have been recognized," said Russell B. Shinsky, Anchin's Managing Partner. "The individuals selected are leaders within the firm, and have a wide range of roles along with deep industry expertise which enables them to provide unparalleled service to our clients. We are proud to have so many members of our team identified and selected by Crain's."

This year's honorees contribute to their communities, including contributing to cultural, educational, and philanthropic activities that improve life for all in the New York City metro area.

Here is some information about Anchin's honorees:
